Past performance is no guarantee of future results. Because of ongoing market volatility, Fund performance may be subject to substantial short-term changes.

PERFORMANCE COMMENTARY

The MSCI World Index gained 2.63% for the quarter, while the Polaris Global Value Fund returned -0.98%. The Fund's outperformance in materials, health care, utilities and energy was offset by declines in consumer discretionary, industrials and communication services. Geographically, the Fund had strong contributions from an out-of-benchmark allocation to South Korea, along with holdings in Ireland and Singapore. The Fund was underweight and underperformed in a heated U.S. market (artificial intelligence momentum drove U.S. averages), with Canada and France as other detractors.

Both copper producer Lundin Mining and Canadian methanol producer Methanex were up on respectively strong commodity prices. Utility holding, NextEra Energy, announced solid earnings in April. In energy, Williams Companies pointed to large data centers, AI and electric vehicles (EVs) as the drivers for unprecedented natural gas demand.

In health care, United Therapeutics noted strong patient adoption of Tyvaso, a vasodilator that treats pulmonary arterial hypertension. Swiss pharma Novartis AG raised its forecast as sales of blockbuster medicines for heart disease and psoriasis outpaced estimates. Conversely, CVS Health Corp. missed earnings expectations on the back of higher Medicare utilization.

SK Hynix and Microsoft ensured positive returns in the information technology sector. SK Hynix continued to dominate in high-bandwidth memory, while noting good price momentum in traditional DRAM and NAND markets. Open Text dialed back on dividends, instead reinvesting capital in new cloud platforms and AI technology to meet its order book. Revised guidance and underwhelming earnings hurt the stock. Overall consumer discretionary holdings were lackluster, with double-digit declines from a handful of companies, including LKQ Corp. and Magna International. Sector highlights included Kia Corp. and LG Electronics.

China's Weichai Power Company was sold after a strong run. Swiss-based Barry Callebaut AG, the world's leading manufacturer of high-quality chocolate and cocoa products, was purchased.

Inflation is slowly grinding lower. We anticipate that nominal interest rates will remain above inflation, which should create a normalized positive real interest rate environment favorable to more consistent equity and bond market behavior.

THE POLARIS GLOBAL VALUE FUND is a no-load mutual fund that seeks capital appreciation by investing in value stocks worldwide. The Fund is diversified across country, sector and market capitalization, and typically holds 65 to 100 stocks that meet Polaris' strict value criteria.

Polaris Capital Management, LLC (the "Adviser") uses proprietary investment technology combined with Graham & Dodd style fundamental research to identify potential investments. Filters are applied as part of the investment approach, which attempts to identify a list of companies with the most undervalued streams of sustainable free cash flow or assets worldwide. Polaris then conducts rigorous fundamental research on the companies identified in the screening process, subsequently making selections for Fund investment.

THE INVESTMENT ADVISER

Polaris Capital Management, LLC is a global value equity manager that provides investment services for institutional and individual clients. Polaris' management believes worldwide markets are generally efficient over time, but investor behavior creates volatility that leads to inefficiency somewhere in the world. An integrated global investment strategy may be utilized to help exploit this inefficiency. Polaris believes investing in the most undervalued companies worldwide likely limits risk and has the potential for benchmark-beating returns.

Total return includes reinvestment of dividends and capital gains. During the period some of the Fund's fees were waived or expenses reimbursed. In the absence of these waivers and reimbursements, performance figures would be lower. The Fund invests in securities of foreign issuers, including issuers located in countries with emerging capital markets. Investments in such securities entail certain risks not associated with investments in domestic securities, such as volatility of currency exchange rates, and in some cases, political and economic instability and relatively illiquid markets. Options trading involves risk and is not suitable for all investors. On June 1, 1998, a limited partnership managed by the Adviser reorganized into the Fund. The predecessor limited partnership maintained an investment objective and investment policies that were, in all material respects, equivalent to those of the Fund. The Fund's performance for periods before June 1, 1998, is that of the limited partnership and includes the expenses of the limited partnership. If the limited partnership's performance had been readjusted to reflect the first year expenses of the Fund, the Fund's performance for the periods prior to June 1, 1998, may have been lower. The limited partnership was not registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("1940 Act") and was not subject to certain investment limitations, diversification requirements, and other restrictions imposed by the 1940 Act and the Internal Revenue Code, which, if applicable, may have adversely affected its performance.

The MSCI World Index, net dividends reinvested measures the performance of a diverse range of global stock markets in the United States, Canada, Europe, Australia, New Zealand and the Far East. The MSCI World Index is unmanaged and does include the reinvestment of dividends, net of withholding taxes. One cannot invest directly in an index or an average.

The Treynor Measure is a risk-adjusted measure of return that divides a portfolio's return in excess of the riskless return by its beta. Beta is the measure of a fund's relative volatility as compared to an index. A fund with a beta higher than 1 is expected to be more volatile than the applicable index. Alpha is the difference between a fund's actual returns and its expected performance given its level of risk as measured by beta. The Sharpe Ratio is a measure of the risk-adjusted return of an investment.
